

So many people have a burden and zeal to pray for and evangelize sinners, but they do not understand that, if we were rightly related to God – His House – then God would break forth upon sinners with unfathomable power. Instead, all our prayers that we pray are usually below we can ask or imagine, and furthermore, all the unction and efficacy in which we labor in evangelism is weak, powerless, and shameful when compared to the New Testament witness. How is it that we can be so fallen, so far removed from our God that did, that does, that will do “exceedingly abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us” (Eph. 3:20)? If we saved the Church we would save the world. If we would build God’s House, He would be glorified. If we would make our ways and our doings right, God would break forth upon the heathen. None would say, “Where is their God?” Is it possible that there could be an OT revival if men “take away the daily sacrifice”? How then, for us in the NT, will we see a revival upon saints which will overflow upon the heathen if, alas, we do not even have the daily sacrifice perfected? Wouldn’t it be more pertinent to be burdened for the wrath-absolving labors of the NT priesthood, if indeed we desire to take ground from the gates of our alien-enemies of hell round about us?
